This modern, oversized scarf is your best-kept secret. Last minute meeting with old girlfriends? Pop on this scarf with skinny jeans and booties and count the minutes until someone asks, "Have you lost weight? And where did you get that scarf?" They can think you were shopping in hidden boutiques all day, landing the perfect find that must have cost more than this month's rent as you simultaneously burned calories. It's up to you if you want to tell.

Mom always knows how to put a smile on her face. When she skins her knee skipping after her brothers, Mom is there with the band-aid and a kiss. She wipes away the tears, and presents a little piece of happiness to make it all better. Imagine brushing the bangs out of her eyes with this adorable clip. Freeing her face from her hair, you'll be there with something pretty to brighten her day. With sweet and sunny colors bursting in girlie goodness, how can you not put a smile on her face? And you know she'll put one on yours too.

The simplest way to look chic? Color-blocking. This forever-flattering trend is perfect for "one of those days" when you need to look effortlessly refreshed. Take this turquoise and tan infinity scarf, for instance. Before tossing this accessory over your head, the mirror was the enemy. Now? Turquoise and tan are peacemakers, forming a truce with the shiny cloud threatening to block your sunny self. Oh yes - you need one.

To where do we wear this little piece of flair? This pop of color is perfect for cooking in the kitchen with Mommy. Practical for drawing those lovely locks out of her face, so she can observe Mommy's timeless baking techniques. Adding ingredients of love to your memory with your little girl, this delectable headband is scrumptious. As you glance down at Mommy's Little Helper, you can't help but savor this piece. A sassy substitute for a chef's hat, this headband is a slice of heaven. Cute as a cupcake, and cute for Your Little Cupcake. Just eat it up.
